Online meet-up Mittelbau SGR-SSSR

Material Religion & Interdisciplinary Approaches

17 NOVEMBER 15:00 – 17:00 CET on Zoom.

Would you like to meet other PhD students and postdocs in the Study of Religion? Would you like to hear more about interdisciplinary approaches? On 17 November we will have another online meeting to exchange about our work, the working conditions, and some of the main themes in the discipline. We offer a place for informal conversation and a chance to expand your network.

Ramona Jelinek-Menke will share her insights about Material Religion and Interdisciplinary approaches. Ramona earned her PhD from Zürich, published her Religion und Disability: Behinderung und Befähigung in religiösen Kontexten. Eine religionswissenschaftliche Untersuchung at Transcript Verlag and currently works at the Philipps-Universität Marburg. At the moment she is a guest researcher in Washington D.C. We will ask her about the transition from a PhD in Switzerland to her postdoc position in Germany and how she looks at interdisciplinarity.

Program

15:00 – 15:10	Welcome and introductions	Mattias Brand, Michaela Wisler
15:10 – 15:40	Short presentation on Seeing the Unseen: Material Religion from an Interdisciplinary Perspective	Ramona Jelinek-Menke
15:40 – 16:00	Discussion in plenum	Moderator: Michaela
16:00 – 16:20	Informal coffee break	.
16:20 – 17:00	Exchange of experiences with regard to the German jobmarket and life after the PhD	Moderators: Mattias and Michaela

The meetup will be held in English (but participation in German and French can usually be arranged).
